Home Bureau Has Full Program for The Coming Week

Ulster County Organization Now Ready for Year's Work Which Includes Activity in Practically Every Community—Entertainment Will be Interspersed With More Serious Problems.

Events are crowding themselves one upon the other thick and fast in Home Bureau circles the coming week, in fact, for the coming months. During the past month committee meetings have been held in practically all communities in the county, according to Miss Evelyn Nance, Home Bureau manager, and now that the county program is all lined up the communities are off on the year's work.

New Unit in Shokan.

The Home Bureau expects to start the week right by the organization of a new unit at Shokan Monday afternoon. A meeting has been held at which time it was voted to start the new organization in the community, therefore, at the meeting Monday afternoon election of officers will be held and organization completed. The communities of Ashokan and Olive Bridge are expecting to join forces with those of Shokan and make one strong organization. It is hoped, too, that those interested in the West Shokan community will come into this new unit. The community is organizing early in order to take advantage of the full year's program.

Regional Conference at Kingston.

Dr. Ladd, director of extension, Cornell State College of Agriculture, has called a regional conference of all Farm and Home Bureau managers and members of executive committees from the counties of Sullivan, Delaware, Orange and Ulster to be held in Kingston Tuesday, October 5. The meeting will be held in the court room beginning at 10:30 a. m. A most worth while and inspiring program is promised. Luncheon will be served at the Advance Restaurant for all in attendance at the meeting. A meeting of the executive committee of the Home Bureau will be held shortly after adjournment of the regional conference. A joint session will be held with the executive committee of the Farm Bureau and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce in the offices of the Home Bureau in the evening.

Specialist in Dramatics Coming.

Miss Mary Eva Duthie, specialist in dramatics, from Cornell, will hold two training centers for local leaders in the county next week. Wednesday, the 6th, the first meeting will be held in Kerhonkson. Notices are out to all local leaders announcing the meetings which will be held in the Sunday school room of the Reformed Church, beginning at 10:30 a. m. Thursday, the 7th, a similar meeting will be held in the Y. W. C. A. at Kingston, beginning at 1 o'clock, the meeting to be an afternoon and evening meeting. Staging, lighting, and scenery will be taken up in the first part of these meetings, the latter part being given over to coaching. Miss Duthie demonstrates the work of the director by conducting rehearsals of casts brought in from the communities interested in staging home talent plays. This is the second lesson in the course. All are open to anyone interested and are free to everybody.

Motion Picture and Discussion.

Four communities in the county are fortunate in securing next week Dr. Frank Laidlaw, district health officer, for an evening of entertainment and for furthering the interests of the campaign against diphtheria that the Home Bureau in cooperation with the State Department of Health is launching in Ulster county. Dr. Laidlaw comes with a motion picture reel and also with a talk that every person in these communities will want to see and hear. He is scheduled for Napanoch Monday evening, Hurley Tuesday evening, Accord Wednesday evening, and Stone Ridge Thursday evening. Large crowds are expected at all these meetings. The schedule below gives time and place of meetings.

Nutrition and Health.

It was voted at advisory council in June to give emphasis in the coming year's program to nutrition and health. Miss Dora Sonnenday, nutrition specialist from Cornell, has spent three days in the county starting the work for the year which will be carried on in every community in the county by Miss Evelyn Nance, county Home Bureau manager. Two meetings will be held next week. One in West Hurley the afternoon of Thursday, October 7, and one at Napanoch Monday afternoon, October 4. Real live husky kiddies are to be used as illustrative material in a lecture demonstration on "The Characteristics of a Well Built Body." All members are expected to bring visitors and friends with them to these meetings.

Drunken Driver Cases in Court

Dismissal of Such Cases by Grand Jury Means That Body Had No Jurisdiction and Cases May be Prosecuted in Lower Courts if Evidence is Sufficient.

When Winnie Finch, foreman of the grand jury, handed up in Ulster county court Wednesday afternoon the indictments found by the grand jury, there were included in the report a large number of dismissals. This unusual number of dismissals did not mean that the grand jury had failed to find evidence enough to convict the persons charged with the crimes but that in the majority of the cases the person had been charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. This popular form of law breaking in the past year or two has become one of the most serious offenses. At every session of the grand jury several indictments were found charging men with driving while intoxicated.

In Ulster county as elsewhere the majority of the cases brought before the grand juries consisted of this class of crime. In order to relieve the congestion of the courts and have speedy justice, Chapter 720 of the Laws of 1926 was enacted to take care of this growing class of crime and now the drunken driver is no longer held for the action of the grand jury but his case is disposed of by courts of special session. City judges, justices of the peace and police justices now handle these cases.

Grand Jury Had No Jurisdiction.

The persons held for the action of the grand jury which has just completed its duties were held prior to the decision of the courts which decided that the law was proper and that courts of special session had jurisdiction. This decision was made early in the spring and since that time drunken driver cases in Ulster county have been disposed of by judges sitting in courts of special session.

The dismissals handed up by the grand jury Wednesday simply means that the grand jury had no jurisdiction in that kind of crime and the cases may later be taken before the proper courts if desired. Bail in all the cases dismissed was cancelled.

Gun Toter and Burglar Sentenced.

Thomas Cornish, colored, indicted for violation of section 1897, paragraph 4, having in his possession a pistol without the proper license, was arraigned and entered a plea of guilty. Robert G. Groves appeared for him. Thomas has been in jail since August 19, and the court sentenced him to 45 days in jail and imposed a fine of $50. The fine was paid.

Samuel C. Chaiken, 17 years old, of Ellenville, indicted on a charge of entering the McMullen store at Ellenville, also entered a plea of guilty to the charge of burglary, third degree. There were two indictments charging the same crime on two separate dates. Judge Fowler on account of the youth of the defendant sentenced him to the Elmira State Reformatory until discharged by law. Chaiken had no counsel.

Bail was cancelled in all cases where there was a dismissal of the charge and two of the defendants who were in jail were ordered discharged by the court.

Court went into recess until Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock without a jury. Jurors will not return until November 8.

Free Diphtheria Clinic Friday

The second of the series of four free diphtheria clinics will be held by the board of health Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the city hall in charge of Health Officer Daniel Connelly. At the first clinic a week ago nearly three hundred children received their first injection of toxin antitoxin. Three doses at intervals of a week apart are required to immunize the child from diphtheria.

M. G. Thompson of Pine Hill was conveyed by the ambulance of the Leo V. Grogan estate to the Kingston City Hospital on Wednesday for treatment because of illness.

Seize Machines In Pool Search

Printing Equipment Found in Hudson Warehouse Alleged To Have Been Used As Headquarters For Baseball Lottery.

Sheriff William J. Kline of Columbia county last week made a second visit to the former Hudson Wholesale Grocery Company warehouse on Water street, Hudson, the alleged headquarters of a base ball pool.

This time the sheriff found 17 typesetting machines all set up and in shape for operating. Besides this there was other printing equipment in sight.

According to the testimony of Deputy Rodmond given at the "John Doe" hearing Thursday, Sheriff Kline, Deputies Charles S. Harvey and himself had visited the place on September 21 but did not find much of anything. Though the search warrant was for the entire building Deputy Rodmond testified that the searching party did not go into all parts of the building.

Friday afternoon Lyman H. Bevans the Albany attorney who is appearing in the inquiry, went to the sheriff's office and requested him to go to the warehouse with him. The sheriff with Mr. Bevans, and George Inman, Hudson attorney, went to the place and found the doors locked.

The sheriff thereupon broke the lock on one door and entered the place. Every room in the place from basement to garret was visited and a big battery of linotypes was discovered.

In one room in the building it was said there were two stoves, a safe, 17 tables and 26 chairs and a large paper cutter. In the room with the linotypes it was said there was a table with galley holders, a proof-taking machine, lead-melting furnace, tool bench and tool chest, while in a third a smaller paper cutter, five tables and two chairs.

The visit was made under the authority of the search warrant recently issued. As the machines, etc., could not readily be seized, they were placed in charge of a watchman and a new lock placed on the door forced in.

Teacher Kills Woman and Self

Leominster, Mass., Sept. 30 (AP).—A 39-year-old school teacher, father of four children, and the woman who had been the object of his attentions for more than a year, lay dead here today as the result of a double shooting in which Don C. Clark shot Mrs. Irene Leger and then killed himself.

The killings occurred last night when Constantine Leger, husband of the slain woman, from whom he had been living apart while working as a chef in Williamstown, returned home unexpectedly to find Clark in his home.

Clark ordered Leger out when the husband forced an entrance into the house after having found the front door bolted.

Leger left but returned with a policeman. They broke in the door to find Mrs. Leger and Clark both dead.

New York, Sept. 30 (AP).—Suzanne Lenglen of the tennis courts was comfortably settled in the Vanderbilt Hotel today with her mother, ten trunks and 12 tennis racquets but none of her famous temperament.

She declared that her temperament was left at home in France when she set out for America and the huge net profits promised her by C. C. Pyle, sports impresairo.

Her contract provides that she is not to permit any of her idiosyncrasy to interfere with the serious business of pleasing the American public gathering in American dollars.

The girl who tantalized European spectators and committees by her uncertainty of appearance is to be temperamental only when it is advantageous, says Pyle who recalls that her personality has added almost as much to her reputation as her racquet.

Suzanne is convinced that when she turned professional she freed herself from bondage to amateur committees.

400 DEAD, 2,300 INJURED IN FLORIDA HURRICANE.

Lost Fortune in Hurricane, Weds

The marriage of Miss Irma Alice Hudson, daughter of George C. Hudson, a fruit grower and sportsman of Highland and Bradentown, Fla., to Gilbert Saxon Terwilliger, son of the late Dr. William Terwilliger of Brooklyn, took place in the Palatine Hotel in Newburgh at 6 p. m. Wednesday. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Foster Coons, of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Cornwall.

Mr. Terwilliger, in partnership with Eric Kerr, of Brooklyn, who was his best man, has been in the contracting business in Miami for a year. Both escaped injury in the recent hurricane, but lost everything. Mr. Terwilliger had to telegraph to Highland to send money that he might come north to keep his wedding date.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Marion Hudson of Mount Kisco, as maid of honor, and Miss Rowena Pratt, daughter of Representative Harcourt J. Pratt of Highland and Miss Virginia Beaubien of Montclair, were bridesmaids. George A. Yaeger, secretary to Mr. Pratt, and Egbert Van Wagner of Highland, were the ushers.

Knockout Fatal To Gerrity

New York, Sept. 30 (AP).—Unaware that his knockout punch had resulted in his opponent's death soon after he left the ring at a Bronx boxing club last night, Frank Liberman, 19 years old, was arrested at his home today on a technical charge of homicide. His opponent, Joseph Gerrity, aged 18, had been floored in the fourth round of an amateur contest.

As Gerrity was being carried to his corner unconscious, Liberman, elated over his victory, leaped from the ring and went to his home. Few of the 1,500 spectators knew of the serious nature of the blow. When Gerrity could not be revived by ordinary methods he was taken to a hospital where he died of a fracture at the base of the skull.

Mrs. LeFevre Wins Contest

County Kitchen Improvement Contest Won by Forest Glen Woman—Second Prize Goes to Mrs. Eppes of Accord and Third to Mrs. Dixon of Hurley.

The Kitchen Improvement Contest launched last spring by the State Federation of Home Bureaus has at last come to a close in Ulster county and the final score shows Mrs. Louis LeFevre of Forest Glen, member of the Gardiner Home Bureau, winner of the first prize. The pressure cooker offered by the American Agriculturist as first prize in the county will be presented to Mrs. LeFevre at the joint Farm and Home Bureau-Chamber of Commerce community meeting held in Gardiner this evening.

A close second in the final score were the letter and plans entered by Mrs. H. M. Eppes of Accord. The second prize, a lovely aluminum coffee percolator, donated by R. K. Everett, hardware dealer of Kingston, will be presented to Mrs. Eppes, at a similar community meeting, held in the Accord community. Ranking third in the contest was Mrs. Clarke Dixon of Hurley, who wins the much coveted stainless steel kitchen set donated by the L. S. Winne Hardware Company of Kingston. The Hurley community is looking forward to a joint Farm and Home community meeting in the near future when time this well earned prize will be presented to Mrs. Dixon.

Fifteen contestants entered the kitchen improvement contest in Ulster county, most of whom ranked high in the estimation of the judges. Bar Visitors from Coolidge Camp

Depredations of Souvenir Hunters Feared at White Pine Camp, Which President Made His Summer White House.

Paul Smith's, N. Y., Sept. 30 (AP).—The departure of the President and Mrs. Coolidge from White Pine Camp was the signal for another advance on the gates by tourists eager to see the Summer White House of 1926. The visitors have found however, that access to the grounds is just as difficult as during Mr. Coolidge's residence there.

When it became definitely known early in the summer that the Chief Executive had selected the Irwin R. Kirkwood camp as his vacation home a long procession of motorists sped to Paul Smith's to inspect the grounds and cabins. So great and so sudden was the rush more than 4,000 cars were counted at the gate in three weeks that Oscar Otis, caretaker of the camp and one of the President's guides was obliged to deny admittance to all.

During the summer only persons invited by Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge to visit them at the camp were permitted to drive into the premises. State Troopers Schemerhorn and Cooper, stationed at the junction of the camp road and the state highway, courteously told tourists of the inaccessibility of the President and his vacation retreat and advised them that if they wished to catch a glimpse of Mr. Coolidge they could easily do so at the executive offices.

The work of closing the camp for the winter began a few days after the President and Mrs. Coolidge had gone, and to facilitate the task belated motorists were barred. Furthermore it was deemed advisable to keep the souvenir hunter from the temptations to which he might be subjected were he permitted to stroll around the camp.

Grade A Milk Advances 1 Cent

Beginning Friday, Cost Will Be 16 Cents a Quart—Ten Dealers Will Handle It, One Will Handle Certified, 13 Will Handle Grade B Pasteurized.

Inasmuch as the producers of Grade A raw milk have increased the price of their product to the milk dealers, the price of Grade A raw milk will be advanced one cent a quart on October first, making the price to consumers 16 cents a quart.

On October first the dealers in Kingston will have to comply with the new milk ordinance adopted by the board of health and which provides that only Grade A milk from tuberculin tested herds and certified milk may be sold raw. Other milk will have to be pasteurized and will be graded as Grade B pasteurized. The new ordinance allows but three grades of milk.

In compliance with the milk ordinance many of the dealers are selling Grade A milk. Since this costs considerably more to produce and handle the producers have advanced the price one cent a quart to cover the increased cost and this advance is being passed on to the consumer who in return gets a better grade of milk than in many cases was sold in the past as Grade B raw.

The price of pasteurized milk remains the same, as does the certified milk.

The ordinance provides that milk from untested herds be pasteurized and that before pasteurization it shall contain not more than 100,000 bacteria and not more than 20,000 afterward. Certified milk may contain not more than 10,000 bacteria and Grade A Raw not more than 20,000. In the city according to the board of health statistics, there are 10 dealers who will handle Grade A Raw after October first, 1 who will handle certified milk and 13 who will handle pasteurized milk.

Buys The Sun And Telegram

William T. Dewart Pays 13 Million Dollars for Papers—Also Buys Mohican Chain of Groceries From Museum of Art.

New York, Sept. 30 (AP).—William T. Dewart, originally employed by the late Frank Munsey as a bookkeeper today controls $13,000,000 of property, including two New York newspapers accumulated by the millionaire publisher who came to New York with $50 in his pocket.

Mr. Dewart announced that he had purchased the New York Sun, the New York Telegram and the Mohican chain of New England grocery stores from the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the residuary legatee, of the Munsey estate estimated as high as $40,000,000.

Mutualization of the properties under a plan of employe control sponsored by Mr. Munsey is to begin at once.

Other Munsey properties still unsold include two magazines, Munsey's and the Argosy All-Story, the Mohican Hotel in New London, Conn., estates in New Jersey and on Long Island, large holdings in the Munsey Trust Company of Washington, and blocks of stocks and bonds. Mr. Munsey owned 13 newspapers at one time or another.

Mr. Dewart is 50, and was first employed by Mr. Munsey in 1898 as bookkeeper for the Mohican Hotel. He was later transferred to the Red Star Newspaper Corporation, and was made treasurer of the Frank Munsey Company when it was incorporated in 1902. As the company grew through purchase of newspapers he became vice president and succeeded Mr. Munsey as president when he died last December.

Virginia Wilson Dethrones Glenna

Haverford, Pa., Sept. 30 (AP).—Glenna Collett was dethroned as titleholder in the third round of the women's national golf championship at Merion today by youthful Virginia Wilson of Chicago, 2 up and one to play.

Miss Collett's defeat came as one of the biggest surprises of a tournament which had already produced many upsets. Her conqueror, a slim, smiling girl of twenty from the mid-west who never seemed to take the match too seriously, came from behind with a sensational rush on the last three holes after being down to Miss Collett over most of the out-going nine, winning the fifteenth and sixteenth to become two up and then halving the seventeenth hole for the victory.

Miss Wilson, outdriven by a wide margin from the tee, displayed marked superiority over the champion in her short game. Her mid-iron approaches and her chips brought applause from a large gallery which braved a pelting rain, while her play on the greens was almost flawless.

Trapped Miners Are Found Well After Five Days

The 43 Miners Rescued from Damp Depths of Pabst Iron Mine Are Today Recuperating from Their Harrowing Experience.

Ironwood, Mich., Sept. 30 (AP).—Safe after 121 hours of nerve wracking imprisonment in the damp depths of the Pabst iron mine, 43 bewhiskered men saw daylight from hospital beds today for the first time in almost a week.

Rest for them and the 400 men who labored untiringly for their rescue was the rule.

Entombed 800 feet under ground last Friday by a shaft cave-in, which killed three mine electricians, the last of the 43 miners were brought to the surface shortly before midnight, ending one of the greatest rescue efforts in mining annals.

Had Lived on Birch Bark.

Today the men were recuperating from their harrowing experience. They were given light foods, replacing their diet of birch bark tea brewed over improvised stoves made from lunch pails. Birch bark was stripped from mine reinforcements and seepage water was plentiful.

Most of the men, attending physicians said, will be able to go to their homes by tonight.

Rescue was effected through hundreds of feet of underground shafts and laterals, some hurriedly constructed and others weakened and made unsafe by the cave-in.

First to reach the imprisoned men was George Hawes of Chicago, safety expert of the Pullman Company, and a former employe of the mine. He was greeted by Tom Trewartha, a shift boss who with two others were on "guard duty" while their companions slept.

"How are you?" Hawes asked Trewartha.

"We are all O. K. forty-three men all right," Trewartha replied.

43 Smoke One Cigar.

It was not long until all the imprisoned men were awake and rejoicing. All took turns puffing a lone cigar Hawes had in his pocket.

Soup, coffee, tobacco and other articles to make the men as comfortable as possible pending their removal to the surface were dispatched. Meanwhile workers started making the rescue passage safer with heavy timberings.

Shortly after 9 o'clock last night Samuel F. Synkelman, father of eight children, emerged. He was the first of the men to come to the surface. Ten thousand persons were jammed about the shaft mouth.

Synkelman, covered with the red iron ore dust, was taken to the mine rescue car for examination. Later he went to the hospital.

All of the men were given a preliminary examination by a physician who visited them in their subterranean abode. They declared they were all right but officials thought it best that all go to the hospital.

Elmendorf was employed by a local truckman who had the job of moving Mr. Haley's furniture to another address and made the mistake of appropriating the pocketbook to his own use.

They disappeared from the Bednarz home Wednesday night, the mother leaving a note written in Polish, which merely said "goodbye".

WILLOW WESLEYAN CHURCH HISTORY RECALLED

Willow, Sept. 30.—Situated at Willow overlooking the surrounding valleys and nestled under the shadow of the mountains are two small country churches the Wesleyan Methodist and the regular M. E. Church the subject of this sketch. Recently there has been some talk that the title of the church property was defective. This is not the case as the former owner a man named Jonathan Rose, deeded the property to the Westwood Methodist Episcopal Church in 1852, the same being duly recorded in Book 112 at the Recorders office in Kingston, N. Y. the county seat of Ulster county.

Some of the pastors at that time were John Hasbrouck, Samuel R. Eachnes who was also an preacher and exhorter and Peter R. Post who acted as class leader. The later converts on connected of the early farmers and their families who were for the most part descendents of the early settlers. Among others were Isaac Hasbrouck, John and Abel Snyder, Sr. Isaac and Albert Wey, Peter, Fred Dowd and Charles Hoyt also Anson Hoyt who joined the church at 81 years of age, Daniel W. Hasbrouck, Abel Miller, David Phillips, Rufus H. Wilbur and many others all of whom accompanied by their numerous families were regular attendants at the morning and evening services for in those days the church supported a resident pastor.

Owing to the death of many of the older generation and the removal and non attendance of the younger people it has become impossible to sustain a regular pastor. At the present time services are held on Sunday afternoons at 2 o'clock every other week at which time the Sunday school and Bible class hold their meetings. The church is now supported by the local residents most of whom are direct descendants of the founders of this church. The new hall recently erected is a very essential part of the social life of the congregation through whose good management and liberality there is no indebtedness of any kind.

As the early church records are lost it is impossible to give any more of the former history or names of the pastors who so ably administered to the spiritual need of the parishioners.

ONLY A NEAR-PARADISE.

Irregularly but unfailingly an earthquake, a volcanic eruption, or a western tornado nearer home, reminds us that man, with all his advancement, his wonderful inventions, his ability to make one blade of grass into two, is, after all, but an unlearned and puny child when confronted with the titanic forces of nature, suddenly let loose. But such warnings troubled nobody in gay and happy Florida, land of bloom, balmy air, fair cities and charming palaces. Florida seemed a place apart, an exception to the law that chastens life with sobering adversity, and not without reason it was popularly described as a paradise. Then, like a bolt from the blue, came the hurricane out of the West Indies that dealt with skyscrapers as if they had been built of cardboard, scattered a wide region with dead, sent thousands forth homeless, and filled the land with mourning.

As one imaginative writer has phrased it, it was almost "as though the gods, bored with the perfection they had wrought, and perhaps a little jealous that man had profited so much by it, had decided to execute a drunken dance and wipe it all off the map." Certainly untamed nature has had its way and once more reminded proud man that there are times and conditions wherein he must submit to as well as acknowledge resistless powers beyond his ken, unable to do more than strive to help his luckless fellows and seek to repair the damage. Florida is only a near-paradise, after all. It is not an exception. There are no exceptions. For some profound and changeless reason the winds of blasting and sobering calamity may blow where least expected, reminding man that his ambitions are ever limited by an overruling edict of "thus far and no farther."

KIPLING AND AMERICA.

It is nothing new to find Rudyard Kipling displaying dislike of America. Yet every time he does so American journalists appear to be surprised as well as grieved, although there is even less occasion for grief than reason for surprise. Kipling has as much right to dislike America and show it as we have not to care a continental. What does it matter? Those of us who are above small prejudices can still like "Kim," the "Jungle Book" and other high achievements of his earlier work as much as ever. We are also equally free to recognize and to say that his recent versifying—the cause of the recent excitement—is very poor stuff that cannot fail to injure the Kipling reputation.

As for the implied contention that Kipling ought to say only flattering things about America because he has derived the greater part of his income from the sale of his works in this country, that is obviously absurd. He has every right to think that he owes us a great deal less than we owe him, which is no doubt true. And we have every right to regard him as an opinionated and disagreeable man even while we pay sincere tribute to his best work. The only really lamentable thing is that the Kipling of today is not the Kipling of old, and almost as lamentable is the fact that, like not a few other writers past their inspired and truly productive period, he does not appear to know it and keeps on publishing when it would be better for all concerned if he wrote only to occupy himself—not for publication.

TIMELY CRITICISM.

On the day of the prize fight, referring to the fact, or the report, that Mayor Walker of New York was to report it for three newspapers, the New York World offered in excuse for its "failure to hire the services of the Mayor" that it had not supposed he "could be persuaded for love or for money to join its staff as a reporter of prize fights," and added: "It may be that here at last is something that the Mayor can do as well as he makes after-dinner speeches. And it may be, too, that he will not be wanting any more time, or acting with any less dignity, than he has over any of his other preoccupations."

This is not the first time that the originally friendly World has clearly intimated to Mayor Walker that it was up to him to get down to business and display some constructive ability as well as much affability. A few days ago the vigilant and plain-spoken World complained that for eight and a half months Mayor Walker has been making speeches and saying "nothing" in the most charming manner while New York's serious and pressing problems were wholly neglected. "It is necessary for him to get it into his head soon," said the World, "that a great city can not be run on charm, wit and handshaking; on dinners, receptions and parades; on district-leader politics and trusting to luck. Before the problems of New York can be gone at intelligently it will be necessary to find some way of inducing Mayor Walker to go to work." The World may be rather severe, but it is a fact that there have been politicians who rode into power on a mere engaging personality and who clearly thought that their only job of any importance was to get elected. If Mayor Walker is really one of these and sees no good reason why he should buckle down and try to "deliver the goods," he is a sadly misguided man whose day of prosperity will be short and progressively less gratifying.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

SPEED OF THE BLOOD STREAM.

Some months ago two Boston physicians were able to demonstrate the actual measurement of the rate of the flow of blood in the body. It was done by injecting radium at one point in the body and noting its effect at a distant point, and the distance traveled during a certain period.

The injection is made in the left arm, and by a special instrument, the electroscope, the arrival is noted in the right arm, during which time the radium has passed through the heart and lungs. This is going to be of great help to physicians dealing with heart conditions and ailments of the blood vessels. The time taken in the average or normal person was from 15 to 22 seconds, whereas in disease it was recorded as slow as from 45 to 60 seconds.

Now the point about this new discovery is that when you are sick, there is a slowing up of the circulation of the blood.

What does this mean?

That food and nourishment to build up cells will be "just a little bit behind", and so the cells in every organ, in every tissue, are going to suffer, because if they are not nourished they are not going to do their work properly, and it is by the proper working of every cell that you are kept in health and strength.

But even more serious than that is that the wastes that are accumulating, and they will accumulate while the cells live, are going to congest the organ or tissues, and a slow moving blood stream, is not only going to have trouble making its way along, but will have one real hard time trying to collect this waste material and carry it to the skin, intestine, lungs and kidneys, to be thrown off.

And what keeps all this blood moving?

That pump of yours, the heart.

It needs every ounce of strength to do this extra work when you are sick, and that is why your physician wants you to rest quietly in bed, and give your heart its best possible chance to work. If you are up you use up much of its strength. But the main point for you to remember is that you can develop a real strong muscular pump or heart by the simple method of a brisk walk daily. This strong pump will often keep you free of ailments by its power to remove wastes from your system, and should you get sick, should have a "reserve" available to stand by you.

YELLOW JACKETS PRACTICE AT ARMORY GROUNDS

The Yellow Jackets have resorted to artificial light to practice which will now be held alongside the Armory on the parking grounds where the gridders can make use of the electric lights. Naturally the local coaches cannot attempt scrimmages on this field but less rigorous workouts can be held there which will help the team greatly.

Practice is scheduled for tonight and Friday night on these grounds at 6:30. In case of rain there will be a meeting in the Armory.

With one important scalp already attached to their belts, the Yellow Jackets will invade Wappingers Falls Sunday in search of another.

Today's Story in New York History

By Frederic A. Godcharles.

(Copyright, 1926, by the Author)

Story of Madame Montour, Who First Appeared as an Interpreter at Albany, September 30, 1711.

In the provincial history of Pennsylvania the name of the Montours stands out among the many Indians of note, and the intimate story of this large family presents many interesting and contradictory characteristics. The first of this family, which has given to that state its name for a county, town, river, creek, mountain range and to Montour Falls, Schuyler county, N. Y., was the celebrated Madame Montour.

There are perhaps no more picturesque characters in the early history of these two states than Madame Montour and her son, Andrew Montour, called by the Indians, Sattelihu; nor any whose origin is more hopelessly obscured by romance and tradition.

About 1665 a French nobleman settled in Canada, where, by a Hudson squaw, he became the father of a son and two daughters. This son grew up among those Indians, who were then in alliance with the French.

In 1685, while in the French service, this son, called Montour, was wounded in a fight with two Mohawk warriors on Lake Champlain. Subsequently he deserted the French cause and again lived among the Indians. In 1709 he was killed while inducing twelve of the western tribes to support the English.

One of his sisters became a noted interpreter and friend of the English, and was known as Madame Montour; the other sister married a Miami Indian and her history is lost.

Madame Montour was born previous to the year 1684. When about ten years old she was captured by some Iroquois and adopted into the Seneca nations. At maturity she married Roland Montour, by whom she had five children; Andrew, Henry, Robert, Lewis and Margaret.

After the death of Roland, Madame Montour married the noted Oneida chief, Carondowanen, or "Big Tree," who later took the name Robert Hunter in honor of the royal governor of New York. He was killed in the war with the Catawba, in 1729.

Madame Montour first appeared as an official interpreter at the council in Albany which ended September 30, 1711. At this council she bitterly denounced Vaudreuil, governor of Canada, for the wanton murder of her brother, Andrew. She employed her great influence with telling effect against the French, who tried to induce her to remove to Canada, but she remained loyal to the English, and was put in a position of great power with lucrative return.

Madame Montour next appears as interpreter in Philadelphia, in 1727. She is described at that time as a lady in manner and education, very attractive in mind and body, and it is recorded that she was entertained by ladies of the best society. She was always uniformly friendly toward those in authority.

Madame Montour always welcomed the Moravian missionaries when they stopped in her town on their way from Bethlehem to Onondaga, or when they went to preach the gospel to her Indians. Count Zinzindorf visited her in 1742.

Her son Andrew became a captain during the French and Indian War, and later rose to the rank of major in the English service. In 1768, the Proprietary Government of Pennsylvania granted him 880 acres of land. With this and other grants he was considered a man of great wealth.

Esther Montour, called "Queen Esther," was a granddaughter of Madame Montour. She was the wife of Eghohowin, chief of the village of Sheshequin, six miles below Tioga Point. She was friendly to the Moravian mission which was located near her village. Queen Esther's town. She accompanied Tory Colonel John Butler, with about 400 English and Tories, and about 700 Seneca, to the Wyoming Valley, in Pennsylvania, and in the terrible massacre which occurred July 3, 1778, the savage in her nature asserted itself, when to avenge the death of her son she deliberately tomahawked sixteen prisoners who were placed around a huge rock and each held by stout Indians. She dispatched them one by one, and justly came by her bloody title, the "fiend of Wyoming."

She was the only one of this large family of Montours whose memory is not pleasant and wholesome, and who did not render some conspicuous service.

On Fashions

Arrivals From Paris Enthuse Over Many Things, from Fabrics to Trimming Treatments, and a Wide Range of Coloring.

Contrary to the usual procedure, details rather than silhouette are in the ascendency, with color perhaps the greatest consideration of all. This is the result of generosity on the part of the couture, though perhaps they have not been actuated so much by generosity as by caution in offering two or three silhouettes in place of one.

The thousands who are trekking for home after summering abroad, and who have sandwiched in visits to the grande maisons with those to museums, seem most excited over the glory of the colorings used and the intricacies of cut and detail. There are so many clever ways of making vertical seaming serve a decorative purpose, so many methods of pleating, so many ingenious uses of applique and of stitching that no wonder they meet with enthusiastic response. Skirt fulness is induced through pleats that are merely pressed and stitched and released, while sleeves may be confidently relied upon to introduce novelty.

Among the fabric novelties are tinsel woven kashas and various wool crepes, while in the same breath one hears of petunia shades, blues of infinite variety, autumn leaf and wall-flower colors, new greens, and again of purple. The world needs no reminder of red—it is everywhere, and throughout the entire range of shades.

Black remains above reproach. Even in the gayest night clubs it is regarded as most elegant, especially when fringed, as so many of the best-looking frocks now are.

Debating in H. S. Assembly

Now that the Kingston High School Athletic Association drive for members is over, the debating organizations launched their membership drive in the school assembly this morning.

Miss Julia Cook, president of the Mary Lyons, was the first speaker. She spoke very briefly of the history and importance of debating in its relation with women. Miss Cook also challenged the boys to put up their best material and defied them to prevent at least one Mary Lyonite from making the varsity team.

Elmore Nathan, president of the Webster-Hayne, spoke of the wonderful past which debating has had with men and also predicted a great future if only the boys would join the club and come to the meetings as well as the girls did.

Mr. Palen, English teacher and one of the faculty advisers of the clubs, gave a few reasons why a boy should go out for debating. Among these are:

Debating develops the power to distinguish between fact and mere verdict.

Debating should establish a keen sense in enjoyment of research work.

The presidents of the clubs are: Mary Lyons—Julia Cook; Webster Hayne—Elmore Nathan and Lincoln-Douglas—Joseph Block.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 30 (AP).—Marking up of the call money rate to six per cent, the highest of the year, was followed today by a vigorous bullish demonstration in the stock market, causing a hurried retreat of the short interest which had sold stocks heavily recently as a result of the tightening of the credit situation. This surprising maneuver on the part of speculators for the advance indicated that they were not yet ready to relinquish the leadership of the market and were well fortified with funds to carry out their operations at least temporarily.

Buying orders were distributed over a broad list with the best gains being recorded by the high grade rails, motors, public utilities, tobaccos, theatres, leathers and steels.

Nearly a dozen issues were carried up to new high prices for the year, or longer, before the end of the third hour. Union Pacific was bid up above 167 and "Nickel Plate" and New York Central climbed at least two points above yesterday's final quotations. Radio Corporation was taken in large blocks on its way to a new high price at 56½. Commercial Solvents B quickly jumped five points to a new record high at 199, but Allied Chemical appeared to be under pressure in further reflection of speculative disappointment over the failure of directors to make a special dividend distribution.

Quotations given by C. D. Halsey & Co., 27 William street, New York city, branch office, Warren Building, 260-62 Fair street, Kingston, N. Y.

Drops Dead at 104 Years.

Chester, West Va., Sept. 30 (AP)—Mrs. M. McClelland aged 104 years, believed to have been the oldest woman in West Virginia, dropped dead yesterday while laughing at a joke told by her husband.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, Sept. 30 (AP).—Receipts of state big Boston lettuce were moderate today. Trading was generally light for the bulk of the offerings because of the unattractive quality. A large percentage of the wholesale business was transacted at 50c @ $1.24 per crate of two dozen heads. Values for western iceberg type were lower. Supplies were rather liberal and the demand less active. Crates of three and five dozen heads jobbed out at $4 @ $5 on the very best and $2 @ $3 for the off grade.

Western New York Elberta peaches were in more plentiful supply. The market closed weak with the demand very slow for fruit not highly colored. The fanciest large, well colored fruit brought $1.75 @ $2.25, rarely $2.50. Green and otherwise ordinary peddled out at $1.25 @ $1.50. For the week ending September 25 the carlot movement of peaches from this state amounted to 388 cars, an increase of 580 over the preceding week.

Although cauliflower was only in moderate receipt there was no material change in the market situation or values due to the indifference on the part of the buyers. Catskill mountain fancy jobbed out at $3.00 @ $3.50 per crate whereas Long Island brought $2.75 @ $3.25.

Offerings of western New York Fellenberg prunes were light but trading continued dull. Half bushel baskets brought 50c. @ 65c. for the best and 30c. @ 40c. on the poor. One year ago on the corresponding date sales of state prunes packed in similar sized containers were made at $1.25 @ $1.50.

Supplies of Hudson Valley basket Concord and Warden grapes were less plentiful but no advance in prices was noted. The demand was fair and 12 quart baskets charged hands at 70c. @ 80c., very rarely any higher. New York city's grape receipts last week filled 1,362 cars of which 1,349 were furnished by California.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE WALKING FISH

Far away went Billie Brownie. Far away from Brownieland and Fairyland and Elfland and Gnomeland to the shores of the Indian ocean, and there he stopped, for he saw the creature upon whom he had come to call.

"Well, will you tell me your story?" Billie Brownie asked.

"Mother Nature told me you were interesting and unusual, and she said I could come and call on you."

"Did she?" asked the creature. "Very well, then, I will tell you my story. But I am rather surprised that we understand each other."

"That," said Billie Brownie," is because Mother Nature gave me the power to understand her children and to be understood by them so I could tell others their stories.

"That is the reason we can understand each other."

"I see," said the creature. "And when I say I see, I mean more than you think.

"I have excellent eyes. My eyes move about in a quite unusual fashion.

"In fact the big, enormous, huge name wise people call me is the name of Periophthalmus, which means eyes that can move about.

"Now call that name if you wish, but my easier, everyday name is that of Walking Fish."

"I much prefer to say Walking Fish," Billie laughed. "I don't believe I could ever manage the other.

"So now I know just what you are."

"Yes," said the Walking Fish, "you know. But my big name means one thing about me, and my everyday

"I Am So Glad I Have Met You."

name means another thing about me which you might like to know.

"I can walk over the mud flats and around the roots of these trees and up the banks and along the shore.

"Damp air is what I want to breathe if I am not in the water, but damp air does almost as well for me as the water.

"Well, sometimes I am out of the water for six hours at a time. So you see it is quite true that I can breathe out of the water.

"You see my fins are a little like arms and so I can climb along the trees nicely.

"Now my tail helps me too when the rest of me wants to be in the air, and just my tail is in the water. My tail is so made that it enables me to breathe quite easily.

"Then I can use my eyes just as well in the water as out of it.

"So there you see I am, enjoying myself hugely, built interestingly and so that I can get about a bit.

"I don't just stay around in one place. I travel about a bit and explore.

"Sometimes I am called the Jumping Fish, and that is a good active name for a fish to have.

"Then again I am called the Mud Skipper, and that is rather a jolly, playful name to have, too.

"All in all I am well fortified with names and with ways of breathing in and out of the water, in damp air or all water, with a tail ready to do a lot of work, and arms fine as useful as can be."

"Oh," said Billie Brownie, "I am so glad I have met you. It was quite worth the long trip in my airplane.

"But of course I was helped along by magic breezes as well as the real ones.

"Still it was a bit of a long trip, but to have seen you was worth it, Mr. Walking Fish, Jumping Fish, Mud Skipper, Periophthalmus."

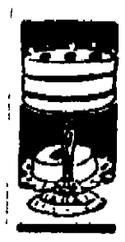
We hear a great deal about the psychology of color in the interior decoration of the home, the theater and the stage, as well as in dress. The effect of color on appetite is just as marked and fully as important

CAKES AND SWEETS

A delicious cake which will be enjoyed by all the family, is:



Orange Cake.—Beat thoroughly two cupfuls of sugar with one-half cupful of butter, the beaten yolks of five eggs and the whites of three, the latter folded in at the last. Two and one-half cupfuls of flour (scant measure), two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and the juice and rind of an orange. Bake in layers and ice with the following: Beat the two remaining whites until stiff, add powdered sugar, the juice and grated rind of an orange until the icing is thick enough to spread.

White House Pound Cake.—Take the grated peel from one lemon and add it to one pound of butter; when very creamy add one pound of sugar and continue beating for ten minutes. Add the yolks of nine eggs and the juice of five lemons; beat for another ten minutes. Add to this mixture a quarter of a pound each of stoned raisins and currants, chopped candied cherries and seedless raisins with preserved orange and lemon peel mixed and cut into shreds. Fold in gradually one pound (four cupfuls) of flour. Bake in a well-greased paper-lined tin for three hours. If carefully packed in tin this cake will keep for months.

Alhambra Bonbons.—Chop very fine in a meat chopper one-half cupful of blanched almonds and one-fourth cupful of seeded raisins. Mix with one to one and one-half teaspoonfuls of honey or maple sirup to make a paste that will roll into balls. Roll in granulated sugar and cinnamon or in chopped almonds. This may be used as a bonbon with halves of walnuts.

Fudge.—Take two cupfuls of sugar, one-third of a cupful of corn sirup, one-half cupful of milk, one tablespoonful of butter, two squares of chocolate or the same amount of cocoa—less if not liked so strong. Boil to a soft stage, cool before stirring then beat until creamy. Adding other flavors, nuts or dried fruit, will make a different fudge.

KERHONKSON.

Kerhonkson, Sept. 30.—Saturday, September 25, certainly was a red letter day for A. J. Anderson Council, No. 20 of Kerhonkson with their dedication and flag presentation to the new high school. Promptly at 2:30 o'clock headed by the Kingston band the parade started. Following the band came the teachers and pupils, followed by Camp 51, P. O. of A., then the honored order of the afternoon, A. J. Anderson Council, No. 70. After reaching the grounds several pictures were taken of the pupils, teachers and lodges, after which came the speeches. The first speaker was LeRoy Lounsberry of Ellenville, followed by the state councilor and several of his officers from Brooklyn. Their able and instructive talks were thoroughly enjoyed by the very large crowd present. The flag was then presented and accepted and all standing sang the national anthem. Then came the bake. In the evening the beautiful auditorium was crowded for the entertainment given by teachers and pupils which was excellent in every way and was followed by dancing which held the crowd until twelve o'clock. The Jr. O. U. A. M., are to be congratulated for the able manner in which they carried out the event of the afternoon and evening and also for presenting each person in the parade with a pretty American flag as a souvenir of the event.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Burgher are moving in the Stokes tenement house.

GULDEN'S MUSTARD

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By the Associated Press.)

Newark, N. J.—Extra! Chance to hear the incomparable dollar-chasing Suzanne with charge. Mlle. Lenglen will be at the mike of WOR at nine tonight playing ping pong with Mary K. Browne.

New York—Gene Tunney has turned down a $100,000 theatrical offer. He's going away to play golf. Then he may go into the movies on the coast.

Chicago—Jack Dempsey has a lot more coming to him, take it from Jack Kearns, who is on the way to the coast to start some more suits there in addition to those pending at various points of the compass. The ex-champion is doing a little legal countering. He has started suit in New York to restrain his former manager.

New York—Mr. and Mrs. Dempsey are to spend six weeks here while Estelle is making a picture. Tired of hotel life they are hunting an apartment—a home. And it's just silly to think that the fight could affect Estelle's affections, she says. Why she hasn't even cried over it.

Newark, N. J.—A lot of fellows are seeking to be the first and best to fight since a handsome ex-leatherneck showed there must be something in that motto. The recruiting office of the marines is breaking records.

Philadelphia—It's an ill rain that blows nobody good. The Athletics are assured $300 apiece because a storm prevented a doubleheader with Washington. Had they lost there would have been a tie for third place in the American League and the money to come from the big series would have to be cut more.

Washington—Love laughs at world series money. Bucky Harris becomes a benedict tomorrow and on Saturday Ossie Bluege will marry Mrs. Margaret H. Eckert, who was his nurse when he was in a Raleigh Hospital because of a pitched ball.

All I do is "soak and rinse" on washday

—yet I get whiter clothes than ever

I NEVER used a soap that rinses out so quickly, and so completely, as Rinso does.

Best of all, the dirt and stains float off in the rinsing. I don't need to do the least bit of hard rubbing—or even boil the clothes, because Rinso not only whitens, but sterilizes, too!

My clothes last much longer this easy "soak and rinse" way because now I never have to scrub them threadbare over a washboard. Yet they are whiter, brighter than ever!

Rinso is all I need on washday. No bar soaps, chips or powders. It makes the water so soft and sudsy. Just ask your grocer for

Rinso

The granulated soap that soaks clothes whiter—no scrubbing.

Black Crepe Satin in the New Bolero Effect

For fall wear this charming frock of black crepe satin, made in the new bolero effect, bids for favor. The blouse is in white and is trimmed with black patent leather applique, green and red buttons and gold embroidery.

Black Leads in Colors for Fall and Winter

Following the recent great vogue for black in America, Paris has included considerable black in her new collections for fall and winter. That this color seems to recur with insistent frequency is due mostly to its adaptability for clothes designed for any hour of the day; compared with the number of gowns for daytime shown in the new rich red shades, those shown in black are negligible; compared with the gowns for evening in the pale pink, yellows and grays, the black gowns seem few in number. But the reds for afternoon do not appear among the evening gowns nor the pastel shades among the afternoon gowns; whereas black finds its way into both collections, leading the casual observer to state that black is first in favor.

Shades of dulled red, new this season, are exquisite, particularly when found in radiant velvet. "Virginia creeper" Jean Patou names one lovely shade, and adds the explanatory phrase, "Autumn leaves burned red by an Indian summer sun." There are other reds with considerable brown in them—port, burgundy, dregs of wine, plum—shading off to the reds with blue, beet red and the lilac tones, which finally deepen into purple shades such as grape, prune and raisin. Patou has taken a rich prune shade and called it "Patou purple."

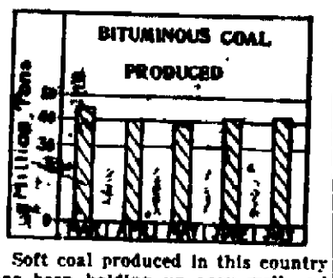
TESTING PULVERIZED COAL.

Babson Park, Mass., Sept. 30 (Special)—The fuel conservation committee of the Fleet Corporation is interested in tests of pulverized coal as a fuel for developing steam in Scotch Marine boilers. So also are the Navy Department and the Bureau of Mines interested in these experiments. Coal in one form or another continues to prove of vast commercial importance both on land and sea today in spite of the advance that has been made in other fuels and means of locomotion.



Soft coal produced in this country has been holding up very well and uniformly. Prices are higher. The price trend of bituminous coal spot, f. o. b. mines, has recently climbed to $2.94, as compared with the low of $1.89 in May and a high earlier in the year of $2.19. The statistical position of coal does not suggest any radical price movements this year. Total production of bituminous for the year to September 4, is 364,510,000 tons. This is far ahead of last year's output of 326,125,000. At the monthly rate this year's production will be in the vicinity of 533,036,520 tons against the previous five-year average of 481,881,860. Industrial consumption is active, the highest in recent years, and consequently stocks on hand are not heavy.

A high volume of business is practically assured for some months which means heavy consumption of coal. Production should adequately cope with demand and any price change would be chiefly of a seasonal nature. There is some talk of a coal strike on April 1. The chances are against the strike but in the event of a controversy it would be short-lived and the non-union mines could easily take care of actual needs.

Advertisers Will Pay Radio Cost

High Class Programs Assured Because Value of Advertising Depends on Number of Listeners. Publicity Manager Tells Rotarians.

Mr. Bernard, publicity manager of the Radio Corporation of America, was the speaker at the Rotary luncheon this week at the Governor Clinton. Mr Bernard's talk was of the business and financial side of radio, with little about the technical:

From the time that KDKA began the first regular broadcasting as an experiment and demonstrated that there was a rapidly growing audience, the growing question has been, "Who is going to pay the bills?" That question has now been answered definitely by the broadcasting of the Dempsey-Tunney prize fight, for which the Royal Typewriter Company, paid $35,000 for "good will advertising." In future the cost of broadcasting by big stations will be paid by big advertisers and this will ensure the highest class of program for the reason that the value of the advertising depends on the number of persons who listen in and it will take the best talent to hold their audience

Through the chain system, any part of the country desired may be covered and the size of the audience may be regulated by the number of stations constituting the chain. It was for the purpose of handling this end of the business that the R C. A. purchased WEAF

RALLY DAY AT ALBANY AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH

Sunday will be observed as Rally Day at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church and all are requested to be present at every service on that day. At the morning service the pastor, the Rev. Arthur S. Cole, will preach on "The New Covenant," and there will be observance of the communion. At the Bible school session at 11:45 o'clock there will be special exercises of an interesting character marking the beginning of the new school year. In the evening at 6.45 the four Christian Endeavor societies will hold a joint meeting at which all of the presidents and superintendents will be present. The evening rally service at 7:30 o'clock will be of a popular character, and the pastor will preach an appropriate sermon on "The Program of Jesus." A full attendance of all members of church, congregation and Bible school will help to make the meetings of the day of larger benefit to all, and strangers will be especially welcome.

ACCORD HOME BUREAU PLANS ACTIVITIES

Accord Sept. 30.—The activities of the Accord Home Bureau this year promise to be bigger and better than ever. Next month they will have their fall rally, which means a good time for every one, but before this event two meetings will be held which will be of interest to the whole community. On Wednesday evening, October 6, moving pictures will be shown in the M. E. Church Hall. After the show a matter of serious importance to the community will be discussed and a vote taken as to whether they will have a diphtheria clinic in Accord this coming winter. The second meeting is the annual Farm and Home Bureau community meeting to be held in Odd Fellows' Hall. The entertainment this year is to be given by the Kingston Chamber of Commerce. Just what delightful surprises they have in store is not known, but it will surely be worth while and it is hoped every person in Accord will come out and give them a rousing welcome. The entertainment will be followed by refreshments and dancing.

ODD BANK NOTES OF EARLY TIMES

Before Nation's Currency Was Made Stable.

Issues of Confederate money provided some interesting incidents, says Farran Zerbe in "The Story of Money." The earliest issues were from Montgomery, Ala., the first capital, and are rather rare. The plates for these were produced in the North, in advance of the outbreak of the war. Their denominations ran from $50 to $1,000. When the capital of the Confederacy moved to Richmond, Va., the notes were issued from 50 cents to $500. Some plates for Confederate notes were made in England and were seized by the Union government on their way over to the Confederacy. When the Civil war came to an end notes printed on one side and uncut were found at Richmond.

Among the extraordinary episodes of the Civil war is this: A proclamation was issued in May, 1862, by the Confederate commander at Mesilla, Ariz., declaring it to be treason to refuse Confederate money. Shortly thereafter the California volunteers drove the Confederates and their money out and arranged with a mercantile house to issue money which was signed by the commander of their forces. This money was known as "rag money" because it was printed on muslin. When this was issued the commander of the California volunteers issued a proclamation in Spanish declaring it treason to accept Confederate money.

Speaking of California, there were some interesting notes issued in that state in the early days. Among them were the "shin plasters," which were payable in gold dust, harking back to the gold rush days. Evidences of how California kept on a specie basis during the Civil war is shown by checks which indicate that a depositor was given an account to correspond with the kind of money he deposited. For example, if he deposited gold he could draw checks payable in gold. If he deposited silver he was entitled to silver; if currency, currency. The common money of the pioneers was gold dust and nuggets, to be later followed by private coinage from 25 cents to $50, the latter, octagonal shape, being the well-known California "slug."

Some notes in this country have been printed in other than English. For example, notes of several banks in Pennsylvania were printed in German. In Louisiana from 1830 to 1850, the period of wildcat banking, notes were printed partly in French and partly in English. Notes in Texas were printed partly in Spanish and partly in English, and in New Mexico some scrip was entirely in Spanish. In troublous times in this country producers have issued scrip payable in their own wares for exchange purposes. For example, a strawberry firm issued a scrip payable in strawberries, others issued it payable in labor, dentistry, yarn, whisky, etc.

Way of a Word

Is it not strange that almost invariably when one speaks of some one in public there is some person within earshot who is (if not the person himself) a relative or friend of that person?

Illustrative is the following incident:

Mrs. Frank Wallace, wife of the state entomologist, reported to her husband one evening recently she at last had learned his correct title. While riding on a street car that morning she said she had overheard her husband's name mentioned by one of two persons in the seat ahead of her.

"Frank Wallace? Oh, yes," said the other, "I've heard of him He's the state emptyologist."—Indianapolis News.

Sauk Rare Flower

More than 100 years ago a small white flower, said to grow only on Unalaska island in the Aleutian group, was found there. During the last century botanists vainly searched for it. This summer the second specimen was obtained there by Prof. George Haley of St. Ignatius college, San Francisco. The bloom was first reported by a Frenchman who accompanied a party known as the Kotzebue expedition to this island in 1815-19. Five other parties visited the island to hunt for it and left empty-handed.

Girl Wins Cycle Honors

Miss Nancy Debenham has proved the champion motor cycle test rider of England. Against a field of some forty men competitors, Miss Debenham, still in her teens, won her race with a good lead, and received the gold cup for the best performance in a 200-mile reliability trial conducted by the Longdon Motorcycling club. She achieved the distinction on a two-and-one-fourth-h.p. sporster machine, which was the lightest one taking part in the contest.

Young Seal as a Pet

Herbert Murray, a boy of Fifeshire, Scotland, has adopted a young seal as a pet. It lives in the lad's garden, with an old box as its home. The seal was found at the sheds of the Wormit Bowling club and refused to leave. Though placed in the water, it insisted on returning to the shore. Two members of the club threw it overboard. The seal, however, returned, crying piteously. Then Herbert Murray, whose father is a noted Scottish wrestling champion, took pity on the visitor and adopted it.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

TO GET TIME TO GO TO FRANCE IN 1927

A recent announcement by Gen W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, that employees of the railroad who are former service men may have four weeks off in September, 1927, to go to France with the American Legion and that they need not forego their 1926 vacations, has been followed by a nation-wide movement of employers to take similar action.

Time off for Legionnaires to make the trip has been indorsed by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the Commonwealth Edison company, the United Mine Workers of America, the American Federation of Labor, the International Typographical union, and scores of other employers and employees' associations and unions.

The Couzens bill permitting former service men in government employ to have 60 days off for the trip has been signed by President Coolidge. Another act made it necessary, however, that the employees forego their 1926 vacations in order to get the 60 days.

Essay Contest Date Is Extended to November 15

The date for closing the national "Back-to-France Essay Contest" of the France convention committee of the American Legion, has been extended to November 15 instead of September 15, due to urgent requests from the field.

Several hundred essays have been received from every part of the United States. The subject is "Why I Want to Go to France with the American Legion in 1927." Three cash prizes have been donated by the steamship companies whose 24 ocean liners will carry the 30,000 Legionnaires to France. The first prize is $350; the second, $150, and the third, $100.

Those eligible to compete are members of the American Legion and the Legion auxiliary. Three judges of national prominence will choose the winners. They are William Allen White, Richard Henry Little and Frederick Palmer.

The essays must give the name of the writer as well as the post or unit of which the writer is a member. Each essay is limited to 400 words. They should be addressed to the National Convention Committee, American Legion, Indianapolis, Ind.

Insurance Companies Offer Trips to France

Several insurance companies are offering free trips to France with the American Legion in 1927 to their agents who are eligible to make the pilgrimage if a certain amount of business is written by them.

One company offers three grades of accommodations besides an additional $100 for spending money. The first prize, including the best accommodations, railroad fare to and from the port of sailing and the $100, requires that $400,000 worth of business be written between July 1, 1926, and July 31, 1927. The agent who writes $300,000 will receive railroad fare, the $100 and the minimum accommodations, while $500,000 business written will provide for the medium accommodations, railroad fare and the $100 spending money.

Suspicious

"Hello, sheik!" hailed the flapper. "Take me for a nice long ride in your new car?"

"Got your walking shoes?" asked the sheik suspiciously.

"No."

"Got a pair of roller skates with you?"

"No."

"Carry a six gun?"

"No."

"Well, then, climb aboard but I'll bet there's a catch in it somewhere."—American Legion Monthly.

Pointer for Novelties

Novelists are said to be contemplating a visit to Paris for their books. If so they should sit down on the right side of a railroad with a notebook and jot down the names of the couple's cars as they whiz by.—New Orleans States.

Hornsby Will Lead His Team

Carrying Out the Dying Wish of His Mother—Yanks and Cards Engage in First Practice of the Series.

New York, Sept. 30 (AP).—The dying wish of Mrs. M. D. Hornsby that her son, Rogers, stick to his post as manager and second baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals and lead his team against the New York Yanks in the coming world series is to be carried out.

The grief-stricken Cardinal leader had contemplated a race to the bedside of his mother in Austin, Texas, that would have kept him out of the first two games of the classic starting here Saturday. The mother, who has watched from an invalid's bed for the past eleven years the steady march of her son to baseball leadership, died yesterday and he was informed that her last wish was that he stay with his team.

"As it was my mother's dying request, I have decided to carry out her wishes," Hornsby said last night. "My family have also requested me do as she said. Her funeral will be held after the series is completed and I will attend."

In addition to the telegrams from relatives and officials of the St. Louis club urging Rogers to stand by his team, one addressed to Mrs Rogers family have also requested me to do with his decision. It was signed "The Folks" and said. "Stay with Rogers. He needs you. All is done here."

The spirits of the Cardinal players, downcast at the news of Mrs. Hornsby's death and the possibility that their leader would be out of the line-up for the first two games, lightened a little after his decision to stay was made known.

They spent the morning and early afternoon in practice at the Yankee Stadium while Hornsby remained in his hotel room attempting to decide between conflicting calls to duty. The men learned of Mrs. Hornsby's death when they returned from the field and after a silent evening meal said what they could to their manager to express their sympathy.

The Cardinal practice in the morning was almost disrupted by the failure of the trainer, Kirby Samuels, to appear at the park with the keys to the players' trunks. With Bill Killifer in charge, the squad finally got down to work about noon, with the infield working out lightly on a slippery diamond and the pitchers warming up easily. Flint Rhem, who is expected to draw the hurling assignment in the first game, worked the kinks out of his arm for ten minutes while the outfielders chased flies in the garden. Each of the New York games will start at 1:30 p. m.

The Yankees took the field at about 11 a. m. for an hour's drill and Babe Ruth promptly propelled two shoots into the right field bleachers. Much photographing of the players in all sorts of poses kept them from serious work although the team picture could not be taken because of Herb Pennock's absence for the day. After the remainder of the pitchers had warmed up they were put to work chasing bunts.

RAILROAD NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP GAME.

The championship baseball teams of the New York Central Lines and the Pennsylvania Railroad System will battle in Indianapolis Saturday, October 2, for the national railroad baseball championship. The game will be played on the American Association field in that city in the presence of the largest number of high railroad executives ever assembled in this country for an athletic event.

The Indiana Harbor Belt team, champions of the New York Central Major League for the second time, will represent the New York Central and the Columbus team of the Pennsylvania Railroad Major League will represent that road. In the evening the two teams will be tendered a banquet, at which C. C. Paulding, Assistant Vice-President, Law, New York Central Lines, will preside as toastmaster. This event will be marked by the presentation to the Indiana Harbor Belt team of the W. K. Vanderbilt trophy and the 1926 championship pennant of the New York Central Lines by P. E. Crowley, President of the New York Central. General Atterbury will present the Atterbury Cup to the Columbus team.

Rubber Paving Indorsed

Tests on rubber block pavement, laid one and one-half years ago at the entrance to the City hospital in Boston, are said to have shown marked advantages. In addition to having worn only little during the interval, the pavement has the advantage that snow and ice do not collect on it in winter as on other types of pavement, thus doing away with slipperiness. The blocks are also almost noiseless and vibrationless. These rubber paving blocks are an invention of R. F. Herrick, a consulting engineer of Boston. They are made largely of reclaimed rubber. Those used in the present test are 12 by 6 inches in area and 2 inches thick, and are laid in plastic mast and cement directly on the street foundation. A coat of asphalt paint was given their edges immediately before laying.

Recipe for Ideal Life

In the effort to appreciate various forms of greatness, let us not underestimate the value of a simply good life. Just to be good, to keep life pure from degrading elements, to make it consciously helpful in little ways to those who are touched by it, to keep one's spirit always smart, and avoid all manner of petty anger and irritability—that is as blest as noble as it is difficult.—Edward Howard Griggs.

Cardinals and Yankees Have 9 Pitchers Each

Herb Pennock For the Yankees Has Won the Most Games With 21—Flint Rhem Has the Best Percentage of .741.

New York, Sept. 30 (AP).—There will be no advantage in numbers when the pitchers of the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees are counted at the world series. Each club has nine in condition to pitch. The national league champions have a total of ten, but Johnson is on the disabled list with an injured hand.

Herb Pennock of the Yankees has won the most games, 21, although Flint Rhem, former Clemson college tiger, is close behind with 20. Pennock, however, lost 11 games and has a percentage of .656. Rhem, with seven defeats, is rated .741.

Garland Braxton, with six victories and one defeat, leads both clubs in percentage figures, his work giving him .857. In spite of this excellent profit on paper, he is not expected to start a game in the series, although he may do some finishing. The leading pitcher in the Cards in terms of games won and lost is Jess Haines, whose 13 victories against four defeats, entitles him to a percentage of .765. Haines, too, hears other names mentioned more frequently than his in discussions of starting pitchers.

Arthur Reinhart, who will almost certainly fire his left handed shoots at the Yankees in a game or more, has won twice the number of games lost, the figures being ten and five.

Walter Ruether, during his term with Washington and New York, turned in 14 victories while being charged with eight defeats. Urban Shocker, former star St. Louis Brown, who has pitched against the Cardinals with success in city series games, has won 19 games while losing 11. Willie Sherdel, counted on to perform mighty deeds for Hornsby's crew has compiled a record of 15 games won and 12 lost.

Bob Shawkey, who has carried his red undershirt into four previous world series is above the .600 mark with eight games on the right side of ledger, and five in the red ink.

Vic Keen, former Cub, won ten games while losing eight for St. Louis, and Waite Hoyt, veteran of three world series, won 15 and lost 13.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, only Cardinal pitcher to have been under fire in a world series, has a season's record of 12 games won and ten lost but the first part of his work was in the uniform of the Cubs.

Sam Jones, who has had the novelty of world series worn off by appearances in a total of three, barely slipped under the wire over the five hundred mark with a record of nine victories against eight defeats.

Herman Bell, winning five and losing the same number, Allan Sothoron, with three victories and the same number of defeats, and Hallahan, who won two and lost three, complete the Cardinals staff.

Two Yankee pitchers finished under .500. Myles Thomas won five and lost six while Walter Beale turned in three victories and suffered four defeats.

Chose Poor Hiding Place

George Harvey, eleven, Wednesbury, Staffordshire, recently spent 10½ hours in an old tin trunk at his home, says the London Mail. He concealed himself playfully in the trunk, but found himself unable to get out. The police searched the district. Ultimately the boy's mother found him, cramped and exhausted, in the trunk.

Does "Yellow Mask" Veil Your Teeth?

YOU look at your teeth. Yellow! Brush and brush as you will you cannot lose that yellowish tinge—why!

In your saliva is a "liquid cement" known as Calculus. It glues to your teeth, then hardens into a glassy mask. Ordinary dentifrices cannot remove it—frequently they thicken it. This mask is tricky. Though hard and slippery, it is also an absorbent . . . drinks in coffee, tobacco and food stains like a blotter absorbs ink. These give it that yellowish tinge.

Your dentist knows what will remove this yellow mask—and he uses it. That is a substance known as "Tri-Calcium Phosphate."

Now dental science has succeeded in embodying that wonderful substance in a pleasant, tasty toothpaste—for the first time. And you, at last, can get rid of that dingy, yellow veil. Replace it with gleaming whiteness.

"GOLF BACHELOR" CHARGED WITH BEATING HIS WIFE.

Mineola, N. Y., Sept. 30 (AP).—Nova Brown, an advertising writer who described himself to police as a "golf bachelor", was in jail today on a charge of assault made by his wife.

Brown was arrested after his wife was found roaming the streets of Westbury, where they live, with a tooth knocked out and in a dazed condition. She said her husband attacked her.

Brown said his wife's fondness for the links caused trouble in their home. He denied the attack.

An Oxford Season

MORE smartly dressed women are wearing oxfords this season than for many years.

Dame Fashion seems suddenly to have remembered how much more comfort and support to the feet is to be had in an oxford. This is especially true of the

Cantilever Shoe

(For Women, Children and Men)

Lacing a Cantilever oxford draws its flexible shank or arch snugly up under the corresponding arch of your foot.

This gives exactly the support needed for tired muscles, without weakening them by over-support and lack of exercise.

The Cantilever sole and heel are so shaped as to relieve the inner arch of excess weight. This helps to make walking and standing much easier.

A few minutes here will show how delightfully comfortable Cantilever oxfords are.

Three Free Chest Clinics Next Week

At the request of Miss Lillian B. Hagelweide, Ulster county tuberculosis nurse, Dr. F. W. Laidlaw, district state health officer, has arranged with the New York State Department of Health to hold three consultation clinics for disease of the lungs at the following places:

Woodstock, Fireman's Hall, October 5.

Ellenville, Hunt Memorial, October 6.

Kingston, Court House, October 7, and October 8.

The clinics hours will be from 1 to 4 p. m., standard time.

Dr. Lyman I. Thayer and Dr. Walter M. Wilmot of the State Department of Health will examine the patients and X-ray pictures will be taken of all suspicious cases. Anyone desiring an examination will be admitted upon presentation of a card signed by the family physicians, or, if there is no family physician, by the health officer.

In an effort to assist the family physicians, these clinics have been held at intervals throughout the state for the past four years and large numbers of people have been referred by their doctors for consultation and X-ray. Aside from known cases of tuberculosis, patients who have been referred for examinations have been of two types: Persons presenting such symptoms as bronchitis, asthma, coughs, persistent colds, loss of weight, undue fatigue and symptoms of like character and persons, especially children, who have been in contact with cases of tuberculosis.

There is no doubt that the decrease in tuberculosis is due to the early diagnosis and prompt treatment of beginning cases and to the close supervision and periodic re-examination of exposed children.

LAST NIGHT on THE RADIO

From Boston to Denver and from Montreal to Houston, Texas, radio reception was excellent last night after 7 o'clock. From 6 to 7 there was a stupendous combination of all of the things that ought not to be, fat frying, snorting, whistling, gurgling and every form of locally made interference that one can imagine. Just why or how this came to be is a mystery, but apparently it served to discourage the bloopers for the remainder of the night, they having blooped one another into silence.

Especially good distant stations were KOA, KPRC and WGN.

A new station on the air is WCWS at Bridgeport, Conn. It uses a low wave length.

The weakest point last night was the south. WSB was the only station south of Philadelphia that was in good volume.

The Champion Incurable Radio Golfer beat his own best record last night and positively identified 57 stations, not counting a dozen others that he heard but whose identity could not be established.

Souser Improves Fish Market.

Mr. Souser has been engaged in the sea food business for a long period of years, at one time having a market in what was known as the "Billy Hamblin" building, now the site of the Valentin Burgevin flower shop, Main and Fair streets.

SMITH'S PUTTER DOES GOOD WORK

Pro's Success Due to Caution and Accuracy.

McDonald Smith, one of the greatest stylists and shotmakers in professional golf, has a "stop-look-and-listen" method of putting, but it usually gets results. "Mac" takes the utmost of his native Scotch caution with every stroke on the greens, examining contours, feeling the resiliency of the sod, sighting his ball fore and aft, then making a final tour of inspection to eliminate all stray obstacles, no matter how minute.

An excellent illustration of the effectiveness of his putting methods was furnished by Smith in carrying off the Metropolitan open golf title in a third play-off round with Gene Sarazen. Sarazen, the defending champion, shot a 70, and was three under par with a card good enough to win nine out of ten matches. But Smith's uncanny work on the greens gave him a record-breaking 66 and the crown. Mac's magic wand was an aluminum putter of the Schenectady type and with it he was finding the hole from distances of 40 feet as easily as he did from four.

In the catalogue of golf's outstanding scoring feats of 1926, Smith's 66 at Salisbury and his average of 74 4-7 for the seven rounds necessary to decide the Metropolitan tournament are ranked by critics on the same plane with Bobby Jones' 134 in the British open qualifying play, and Walter Hagen's record-breaking 132 for the first two rounds of the Eastern Open championship.

Carey Remains One of Most Remarkable Stars

Max Carey, Pittsburgh's veteran out fielder, continues to remain one of baseball's most remarkable products, comments Grantland Rice in the New York Herald-Tribune. Wagner and Lajoie retained the glint in their batting eyes for over 20 years. Cobb still can hit with the best. Pop Anson was a great hitter for 23 years.

But none of these was ever able to hold the speed of youth. The batting eye remains longer than any other adjunct. Speed is the thing first to fade.

Carey, after 16 campaigns, is as fast as ever. He was the best base runner in the game last year and one of the fastest. He can still step with any of the young speed stars and his value to the club never has been quite appreciated by the outside public.

Carey belongs to the period which turned out Cobb, Collins, Speaker and Johnson, although he came on just a little later. But he was among that great group which emerged between 1905 and 1910, which also gave baseball Stuffy McInnis, Zach Wheat, Frank Baker and a few more who went a long, long way. Collins, Speaker and Cobb can still step around, but not with the lean-waisted Pirate, who can manage to steal fifty or sixty bases a year, if not hampered by the flu.

Photograph shows "Pop" Warner, coach of Stanford university, California, who spent his summer at Springfield, N. Y., doping out plays for coming football season between rounds of golf.

First Curve Ball Ever Pitched Amazed Batters

Candy Cummings, of the old Stars of Brooklyn, is credited with being the first pitcher to release a curve. However, Joseph M. Mann, of Princeton, really did as much as Cummings, probably more, to popularize what was then a "freak" ball.

Mann was the first to accomplish a no-hit game, and it was largely through the use of curves that he earned this distinction. Mann, pitching for Princeton, shut out Yale at New Haven, May 29, 1875. So astonished were the Yale players at Mann's ability to curve a ball that they gathered round the plate as the Princeton star fanned out the Eli batters.

George Wright, of the old Cincinnati Red Stockings, pulled the first double play. It was in a game against the Atlantics, of Brooklyn, played on Long Island. In the tenth inning, with a man on first and second, the batter popped a fly to Wright at short. Instead of catching it, as the runners anticipated, Wright "trapped" the ball by scooping it on the first bound. He then threw it to third, and that baseman, alive to the situation, shot it to second. Two runners were out, and the first double play had been performed.

This Careless Age

The case of the San Francisco girl who, three hours after she had been married a second time, remembered she already had a husband, is another evidence of what a careless age this is.—Buffalo Courier and Express.

Stanley Harris Picks the Yanks

Washington, Sept. 30 (AP).—Stanley Harris, who won a world series championship with his Washington American League team in his first year as manager, doesn't think Rogers Hornsby, of the St. Louis Cards, can duplicate his feat.

"The Yanks for mine," he said today in discussing the approaching series. "I look for them to be superior to the Cardinals in hitting strength and also believe they will show in Waite Hoyt the best pitcher of the championship games.

"Furthermore, I believe their familiarity with both playing fields will give the Yanks a considerable advantage. A club unused to the field in the Yankee Stadium can find a pack of trouble there."

Wills-Sharkey Bout October 12

"The next outstanding challenger for the heavyweight championship of the world will come out of Ebbets Field October 12," said Promoter Humbert J. Fugazy, after he had signed Harry Wills, who was denied his chance to meet Jack Dempsey, and Jack Sharkey, the sensational Boston heavyweight who has bounced to the foremost ranks by his great victory over George Godfrey, the Black Leopard of Leiperville.

And there is no doubt that the winner of the Wills-Sharkey fifteen round battle will be regarded all over the fistic world as the logical contender for Gene Tunney's newly acquired crown. Wills is still the greatest heavyweight in the game today in the estimation of millions of boxing fans who believe he could have beaten both Dempsey and Tunney in the Philadelphia ring the same night. After the showing Dempsey made against Tunney this big army of fandom is now certain Dempsey was ducking Wills because he figured the Black Panther too powerful for him. And they never gave Tunney an outside chance with Paddy Mullins' giant boxer.

GARDEN CLUB LEARNS OF OLD TIME GARDENS

An unusually interesting meeting of the Ulster Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. James D. Winston at Saugerties on Tuesday.

A large number of colored slides taken and sent by the Garden Club of Richmond, Va., were thrown on a screen and descriptions read. These pictures were of famous and historic gardens of Virginia and in most gardens there was a picture of the old garden plan, which was most interesting.

From the earliest settlements on the lower James river to the estates created a few years later by these settlers from England, the houses were very fine and along lines of English building at that time, but with changed conditions due to slave labor it would seem that at once with the building of these homes the gardens were laid out. The ground plan always included the marking of all paths and borders by box. In the centuries that have elapsed since the planting this box has in many gardens grown to enormous height.

Beautiful topiary work—or clipping of the box in shapes—curious walls of brick made in serpentine waves—a fancy of that old time, crepe myrtles, tall poplars and cedars, lovely iron grills at gates, stone terraces, with masses of old fashioned flowers, and various other garden features not common with old gardens here made the pictures of peculiar value to an audience familiar with houses and gardens as old but so different.

A feature of the day's entertainment that was of interest to those who knew about it was that on the walls of the Winston drawing room where the pictures were shown, hung the portraits of several ancestors of both Mrs. and Mr. Winston. Carters, Harrisons and others who had been owners and residents of some of these old houses.

Mrs. Richard Atkins spent the week end with her daughter in Poughkeepsie.

Mountain Potatoes

W. B. Yeats, the Irish poet, told an Irish story on one of his American visits.

"There was a village in the county of Waterford," he said, "where a shopkeeper once exhibited a number of coconuts for the first time. Of course they attracted a good deal of attention.

"A crowd of schoolboys gathered round the window, discussing the coconuts and giving their views as to what the curious things might be, and finally a ballyhoff lad named O'Rourke walked into the shop and said:

"'Please, sir, and what's the price o' them shanderin' big stumps of mountain potatoes with wrinkles on 'em in the window?'"

Harvard Has Team of Veterans

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 30 (AP).—A team of veterans will open the season for Harvard Saturday when the crimson aggregation meets "Bo" McMillan's Geneva College players on Soldiers' Field. The new western coaching staff, under the direction of Arnold Horween, has practiced the Harvard squad many long hours in shaping a team.

Four scrimmages have been held since practice started and each day found the seasons cloaked in deepest secrecy so that the would-be football prophets had little material to mull over other than the authorized reports.

The line-up is still in doubt but from center to tackles, the team is above average. The ends fall below normal and the work of backfield cannot be estimated as those positions are even more indefinite than those on the line.

It is hoped that Turner, the man who single-handed saved the Crimson from defeat in the Yale game last year, would hold the pivot position in the line but he has yet to hear from a French examination upon which depends his chance to play and also his eligibility for the captaincy of the team next year.
